
Life Insurance Charitable Plan

For the individual who would like to make a substantial bequest to his or her favorite charity, but does not have sufficient assets to fulfill this desire, a charitable plan consisting of a life policy should be considered.

The policy owner (typically, the insured) can transfer an existing life insurance policy to the charity or contribute the funds necessary to purchase a new policy. Additional tax-deductible contributions can be made to help the charity pay the annual premium. This not only spreads out the amount to be given, but allows one to experience the feeling that comes from sharing with others on a more frequent basis.

If circumstances change, the insured can discontinue making the gifts and the charity will either continue the payments or surrender the policy for the cash values.

Note: Merely naming a charity as a beneficiary of a policy will not produce an income tax deduction, since the owner (insured) still has the power to surrender the policy.

The income tax deduction is limited to the lesser of:

- Donor's cost basis (premiums paid less dividends received in cash and policy loans outstanding); or
- The policy's value, which varies with type of policy.
 - Ordinary life: The interpolated terminal reserve (roughly cash value) plus any pre-paid premium.
 - Paid-up policy: Present cost of a comparable policy at the donor's current age.
 - New policy: The gross premium just paid.
 - Term insurance: The portion of premium that is still unearned by the insurer.

¹ This is generally funds to purchase a new policy and a small annual contribution to pay premiums.

Disclosure Notice

The information that follows is intended to serve as a basis for further discussion with your financial, legal, tax and/or accounting advisors. It is not a substitute for competent advice from these advisors. The actual application of some of these concepts may be the practice of law and is the proper responsibility of your attorney. The application of other concepts may require the guidance of a tax or accounting advisor. The company or companies listed below are not authorized to practice law or to provide legal, tax, or accounting advice.

Although great effort has been taken to provide accurate data and explanations, and while the sources are deemed reliable, the information that follows should not be relied upon for preparing tax returns or making investment decisions. This information has neither been audited by nor verified by the company, or companies, listed below and is therefore not guaranteed by them as to its accuracy.

If a numerical analysis is shown, the results are neither guarantees nor projections, and actual results may differ significantly. Any assumptions as to interest rates, rates of return, inflation, or other values are hypothetical and for illustrative purposes only. Rates of return shown are not indicative of any particular investment, and will vary over time. Any reference to past performance is not indicative of future results and should not be taken as a guaranteed projection of actual returns from any recommended investment.